

Northern Rhône 2015 : Our Best Rhône tasting ever ?

Chante-Perdrix,
Cornas, 2015

95/100

Abounding with dark fruits, roses and spicy nuances, this is an intense style that shows fine ripe tannins and a solid middle. Great acidity and a mineral streak carry onto a long finish.

Gearoid Devaney

Full of liquorice and violet aromas, In the mouth there are elegant tannins and firm acidity. Modern, yes, but also respectful of its provenance and granitic acidity.

Simon Field

Liquorice, tarragon and mineral black fruits. Full bodied, juicy and ripe with balancing acidity. Lots of life and a lifted glint on the finish.

Matt Walls

Seigneur de Maugiron, Côte-Rôtie, 2015

93/100

A roasted, intense, searching nose cascades into a big-boned beast that is full of spiced oak and an earthy mineral undertone. The oak is glossy and the fruit just discernible behind its monumental core. This does not lack for potential.

Domaine des Tourettes, Hermitage, 2015

91/100

The dense inky hue reflects the intensity of the black cherry and bramble fruit. It is a flashy style with assertive oak. The palate is a touch volatile, but the firm tannins and long finish are in balance.
